HGTV and DIY Network star Brandon Hatmaker Hits the Road with Motorcycle Tour to Promote New Book A Mile Wide: Trading a Shallow Religion for a Deeper Faith

Donations Made During Tour to Benefit the Boot Campaign and J/P Haitian Relief Organization

Nashville, Tenn. (Sept. 13, 2016) – HGTV and DIY Network star and founder of The Legacy Collective Brandon Hatmaker is hitting the road on a five-city motorcycle tour to promote his new book A Mile Wide: Trading a Shallow Religion for a Deeper Faith (Thomas Nelson, September 13, 2016). Riding from city to city, Brandon will be joined by his Austin motorcycle club Grim Guardian, friends, family, Legacy Collective members and celebrities at each stop of the tour. For more information, please visit www.amilewidebook.com/tour.

The tour will make a stop in Houston, TX at the Red Neck Country Club on Oct. 2; Monroe, LA at Nonna on Oct. 3; Atlanta, GA at the 57th Fighter Group Restaurant on Oct. 5; Nashville, TN at Leiper's Fork Distillery on Oct. 7; and Dallas, TX at Grapevine Craft Brewery on Oct. 9. Each stop will have a book signing and gathering where patrons can enjoy food and drinks for purchase, live music, presentations and guest appearances.

Donations from the Houston, Monroe and Atlanta stops will be accepted on behalf and will benefit the Boot Campaign, an organization dedicated to promoting patriotism for America and our military community. Donations from the Nashville and Dallas stops will be accepted on behalf and benefit J/P HRO, an organization dedicated to supporting stronger communities in Haiti. For those who would like to donate, they may text the word BOOT for Houston, Monroe and Atlanta and HAITI for Nashville and Dallas to 27722 to give a $25 donation to the cause. Hatmaker's Legacy Collective, a giving community focused on partnering, pioneering, and funding sustainable solutions to systemic social issues around the world, will match up to $50,000 in donations that are made throughout the tour to benefit the Boot Campaign and J/P HRO.

In A Mile Wide, Hatmaker invites anyone who is tired of living Sunday-to-Sunday and exhausted by a-mile-wide-but-an-inch-deep religion, to gain a fresh perspective on faith—from identity to discipleship to communication, to doing justice and more. Addressing eight essentials of Christianity—the gospel, identity, scripture, discipleship, kingdom, mission, community, and justice— A Mile Wide provides biblical insight and practical applications that tap into the richer life Christ promised his people, individually and as a community.

Hatmaker (husband to New York Times bestselling author Jen Hatmaker) is also founder and CEO of The Legacy Collective (www.LegacyCollective.org), a giving community focused on partnering, pioneering, and funding sustainable solutions to systemic social issues around the world.

Brandon Hatmaker is a huge fan of the underdog. The tattooed preacher, author, and humanitarian who loves motorcycles and outcasts has devoted his life to exploring how deeper faith demolishes silos and reconciles people to God and one another. The founder of Austin New Church, Brandon has more than 20 years of church leadership experience. He launched The Legacy Collective, a giving community focused on partnering, pioneering, and funding sustainable solutions to systemic social issues around the world – in 2015, and currently serves as the organization’s CEO. Along with his wife, author and speaker Jen Hatmaker, and their five children, Brandon has also charmed the entire country on breakout HGTV series “My Big Family Renovation” and “Tiny House Arrest,” along with other appearances. His books include “Barefoot Church: Serving the Least in a Consumer Culture” and the highly anticipated A Mile Wide: Trading a Shallow Religion for a Deeper Faith. The Hatmakers live just outside of Austin, Texas. For more information, please visit brandonhatmaker.com
